

ARGUMENT ACROSS DISCIPLINES

WRITING 315S
/ Econ 315S
/ Educ 315S

Spring 2024
T/TH 1:25-2:40

Considering a thesis/research project?

Considering grad school?

Want to learn more about how writing works in your discipline?

Want to satisfy a W requirement?

This course provides practice in analyzing and using the conventions of research writing in students' disciplines. The course will be most useful for students who are considering research-intensive projects or theses, and students who are considering graduate school or any job that will require them to work closely with findings produced by researchers.

Prerequisite: Writing 101.

Taught by Dr. Charlotte Asmuth, Assistant Professor of the Practice, Writing Studies. Questions? Contact charlotte.asmuth@duke.edu.